

Prevention is better than a cure

Last year, the National Cyber Security Centre and The Law Society and the Solicitors Regulation Authority produced this report – “The Cyber Threat to the UK Legal Sector”. This report highlights the very real danger these threats pose and offers great advice on how to protect your firm from today’s sophisticated cyber attacks.

There is a lot to consider and it may feel like a lot to take in but don’t despair! Here’s how Ivanti Security Controls can help with three of the four highlighted areas of focus.

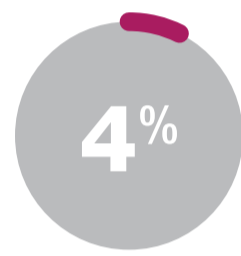

Phishing Research shows:

of security incidents involve phishing

of employees open phishing emails

of users click on links or open attachments

Employees, including solicitors and support staff, are your weakest link. With application control and patch management, you can block malicious links and ensure any vulnerabilities are remediated.

Data Breaches

Reputation is everything in the legal industry – this can be ruined by a data breach. With application control, you can mitigate risk by blocking untrusted programs or scripts from running and prevent unauthorised code execution and enforce software licensing through our unique “trusted ownership”.

Ransomware

£11.5 BILLION

is what ransomware will cost organizations by the end of 2019. This includes loss of productivity across Partners, Associates and all those that need access to critical apps & data.

of ransomware attacks can be prevented by a multi-layered approach, including OS and third-party patching, application control and privilege management.

With Ivanti Security Controls, patch management isn’t full of holes that could devastate your business. Whitelisting isn’t a chore that requires constant maintenance and updates to be effective. And, privilege management isn’t an all-or-nothing proposition that leaves you at risk in yet another way.
